

National Archaeology Week 11-18 May 2003

A great learning experience for NSW students and teachers

Discover Archaeology

12 - 16 May

Discover Archaeology offers a unique opportunity for students to do hands-on, syllabus-targeted, Australian archaeology. In one & a half hour structured workshops, they are themselves the archaeologists, studying finds and seeking clues to their interpretation of the excavated ruins of Regentville, a once-grand mansion on the Nepean River.

Workshops are offered for Years 3-6 HSIE & science and Years 7-12 history, technology & science students.

Monday 12-Friday 16 May 9.30am, 11.30am, 2pm & 4pm
bookings essential cost $7.50 per student (inc. GST) minimum group cost $150

Teach Archaeology

Sunday 18 May

The Regentville dig was a first for many archaeologists now working in Sydney and elsewhere. Study of its material remains offers a special window into colonial settlement in NSW with insights also into its impact on the indigenous occupants and their threatened environment.

The 3-hour workshop Teach Archaeology aims to give NSW teachers practical skills in the classroom teaching of archaeology. Focus is on the process and nature of archaeological inquiry.

Sunday 18 May 9.30am & 2pm
bookings essential
cost $49.50
(inc. GST & refreshments)

The University of Sydney

bookings & more info
phone: 02 93512767

email: helen.nicholson@archaeology.usyd.edu.au

www.acl.arts.usyd.edu.au/research/regentville